REPORT ON Russian playing dual role of Soviet Official and Propagator of Comrade Borodine's Views.

Made by P.C.C. Kedrolivansky Forwarded by Julie

Sir

There is no doubt that Longva, who visited the Soviet Consulate, is identical with the man who was formerly in Hankow. The allegation made in the China Press that he was engaged in making inflarmatory speeches to Chinese was based on hearsay, and there is no evidence in support of it at present.

Sir.

Cards handed to the Muncipal Police by visators to the Soviet Consulate on April 16 included one inscribed in Russian as follows:

*Roman Voitshehovitch Longva, Military Attache, U.S.S.R. "Embassy, Peking". This man appears to be identical with the original of the attached photograph, which appeared in the China Press on January 23 over the following description:

*Exploiter of the Mob Mind -- Comrade Lung Kwa Wah ( "a Red Russian who is Borodin's man on the spot for inflaming

"Varges, International Newsreel Correspondent in Far East".

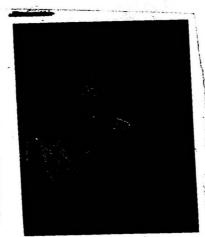

Tem. Police Constable E.V. Yablonsky, to whom hae visiting card was handed, describes Longva as a tall man of He adds that his features were like those of slim build. the man in the picture who is described as Comrade Lung Kwa ), but he is not sure.

Efforts are now being made to prove that the visitor to the Soviet Consulate was Langva, and to obtain confirmation of the allegation in the China Press. When Longva visited the Soviet Consulate, he was by a man who gave a card inscribed "W.T. Shealo, of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, Tientsin". I am, Sir,

Your obedient servant,

	REPORT ON	Plans of	Anti-Foreign Par	tv in Chin	A.

Made by P.C.C.Kedrolivansky Forwarded by

Il Guins 6. D.

Sir.

With reference to the item in the Morning Report of January 11, 1927, regarding the arrival of Soviet Agents named Vaskoff and Longva from Hankow, a Russian lady named De Jauriaus, whose husband is a French and Commissioner of Posts at Changsha, states that she dined at the same table as the two subversive agents on the trip from Changsha to Shanghai by the s.s. "Tuckwo". Not suspecting that she could speak Russian, the table conversation between them sometimes turned on the plans of the anti-foreign party in China. They said that the Soviet Government would help the Kuomingtang to drive all foreigners out of China. The foreigners, however, would be allowed to return later, but on the clear understanding that they lived in China not as the masters but as the guests of the Chinese people.

I am, Sir.

Your obedient servant,

Extract from Intelligence Report dated January II, 1927.

Two Russians named Vaskoff and Longva, who pppear to be Soviet agents, arrived here on January 8, by the S.S. "Tuckwo" and are now believed to be living in the Soviet Consulate. Passengers travelling by the same ship state that these Russians were seen off at Hankow by Borodin and several other Soviet citizens employed by the Southern Esroes. Both Vaskoff and Longwa speak Chinese fluently.
